 4 Doing nothing is doing ill.
 5 Extravagance ruins many a family.
 6 In much work there shall be abundance of.

The distinguishing characteristics of this Series are as follows:—
 Combination, in the greatest possible degree, of legibility with rapidity. The formation of all the letters, and notably of the letters a, d, g, are adapted to this end.
 The tailed letters are of moderate length. The up and down strokes are of nearly equal thickness, as in the ordinary writing of both sexes, as contradistinguished from the engraver's style.
 The writing of each word is continuous from end to end.
 Exclusion of large hand (on the Continental and American principle), as unfit for small fingers.

Systematically progressive arrangement and variety of headlines—two lines on each page.
 Traced lines under each copy, to be written over (in Book 1).
 Guide lines to regulate the length of tailed letters (in Books 2 to 6).
 Careful and abundant selection of proverbs and aphorisms (in Books 4 to 5).
 Collection of over 200 of the Christian Names in most common use, affording scope for a great variety of elegant Capitals (in Book 7).
 The most perfect collection yet published of Plain and Ornamental Lettering (in Book 10).

THESE BOOKS—BOTH TWOPENNY AND PENNY EDITIONS—HAVE BEEN (IN COMPETITION WITH OTHERS) ADOPTED BY THE COMMISSIONERS OF NATIONAL EDUCATION IN IRELAND, WHOSE PURCHASES HAVE EXCEEDED ONE MILLION & A-HALF PER ANNUM.
