LIBER SEPTIMUS. sane de rebus nostris tantam mutabilitatem tam breuf fieri: sed nihilo minorem de nobis ipsis mutationem fao clam sentiemus, fi iusti rerum æstimatores huic quog rei diligeter attendamus. Non ne dudum infantes eramus, mox pueri, ex templo adulti, repente uiri, statim senes, citissime decrepiti, ac mortis foribus insultates esic & uer in æstatem, æstas in autumnum, autumnus in hyemem assidue uergens, annum perficit. At hæc spacia tempos rum, ita per assiduos temporis lapíus transeunt, ut ad idem uice annua revertantur: & eadem temporis facies redeat, quæ prius fuerat anno superiore: sed ætas homio nis,& humanæ uitæ ratio in dies magis ingrauescens,sic pertransit,ut nunquam reuertatur. Et heu o tam breui per eiusmodi ætates decurrentes tollimur de mundo: utetiam qui fint ultima ætate grauati, & ultra penfum (quod aiunt)progressi, uix sibi annum integrum uixisse uideantur. Sed nech Adam fiadhucuiueret, & hodie effet fibi moriendum, uideretur fibi diu, satisq; uixiffe, Q uid nam prodest quatumuis spacium protraxisse uio tælongiusculæ, quum iam finis aduenerit, & dies adsit extremus quando uelis, nolis, oporteat te statim moris Nulla sane uita dici potest longa, quæsic repente sugit à nobis:& quæ tam prefixum,& constitutum terminum habet,ut ultra transgredi nulli omnino liceat : etiam fi ulo tra Tithoni senectam, & Nestoris zuum, & Mathusale annos progressus fuerit; quadoquidem omne spacium, ulæ,quod uluimus quantumuis pateat, breue fit, & omo his ætas quum fluxerit quantumuis diuturna nihil fuisse uideatur. Debemur morti nos, nostraq: & breui post tempore cedimus posteris locum: mutamurq; mortales luccedentium nicissitudine per singulas ætates, ut lauri, ac olez folia occulte per singulos annos: quibus cadeno tibus, et uicis sim renascentibus, densa opacitas nunquam defit: & uiriditas perennis manet. Similiter fit etiam de nobis:nam mundus nung uidetur deficere : fed femper
