LETTER CXIX.

TO THE SAME.

Blackheath, Sept. 17, 1772.

DEAR DAYROLLES,

I Acknowledge my blunder; for how should the boy and monsieur D'Eyverdun have communicated to you their direction, without inspiration, which, though you are a very devout man, I don't believe has been granted you. The direction is very short; To monsieur D'Eyverdun at Leipfig, and I send all my letters by the common post, and not one of them has miscarried.

I am very angry at the return of Mrs. Dayrolles's old complaint, especially as she is out of the call of doctor Warren; but I am glad to hear, that your olive-branches are all well. Good night to you.

Yours, most faithfully and sincerely,

CHESTERFIELD.

LETTER CXX.

TO THE SAME.

Blackheath, Sept. 24, 1772.

DEAR DAYROLLES,

I Have just now received your letter, and likewise the copy of that, which, at my request, you wrote to * * *. I think it must have its effect.

I am extremely sorry for Mrs. Dayrolles's situation, but I am a little in her case; for it is now four months since I have been labouring under a diarrhoea, which our common doctor Warren has not been able to cure. To be nearer him, and all other helps, I shall settle in town this day se'nnight, which is the best place, for sick people, or well people, to reside at, for health, business, or pleasure. God bless you all.

CHESTERFIELD.
