stated earlier for about one million in 2000 jobs and the most migration recently announced of any other country and may be due to the large number of immigrants from the former Soviet Union.
The following table gives some information on the foreign population in Germany.
The figures are estimates for 1999.
The first column shows the total number of foreigners in Germany, the second the number of foreign citizens, the third the number of non-German citizens, the fourth the number of foreign workers, the fifth the number of foreign students, the sixth the number of foreign tourists, and the seventh the number of foreign visitors.
The figures are estimates for 1999.
